The image shows a large, rectangular battery pack housed within a red metal container. The battery pack is composed of numerous individual cells, each with a dark, cylindrical top. A network of thick, dark cables is connected to these cells, with some cables running across the top surface and others bundled together. A black cable with a connector is plugged into the side of the container. The container is situated outdoors on a concrete surface, with the rear of a white truck visible in the background. A logo is printed on the front of the red container.
